

To: <review@oir.commerce.nsw.gov.au>
Date: 18/08/2009 2:03 pm
Subject: Public Holidays

I would like to submit a request that more clarity be given to the legislation, especially surrounding days where holidays fall on a weekend and when they are not consistent across the states.

Following on from this, I feel that we should move to a nationally standard set of holidays, which would ease the burden on employers having to keep track of different dates in different states.

I would also like to recommend that any review of holidays must take into account that the majority of Australians are not Christians. This is a multicultural country and public holidays should remain secular, not tied to religion. There should be a clear separation of church and state, and this should be reflected in public holidays.

Kind Regards,
John Kolotas

Resi is an award-winning mortgage specialist that has been helping Australians save money on their home loans for over 20 years.

Please note that this message and any files transmitted with it are confidential and intended solely for the use of the individual or entity to whom they are addressed. If you are not the intended recipient of this email, you must not copy, distribute or take any action that relies on it. If you have received this e-mail in error please notify Resi and delete the message including any attachments. This e-mail message has been swept for the presence of computer viruses, however, Resi provides no guarantee that all possible viruses have been detected and cleaned during the process.